

Braves Will Ask League Today for Permission to Shift to Atlanta

BOARD'S DECISION MADE IN CHICAGO

Statement Given Out Amid Confusion — Giles Calls Owners to Meeting Here

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves board of directors voted today to request permission from the National League to transfer their franchise to Atlanta for 1965.

At the request of Warren Giles, the National League president, no further information will be made available until after the league meeting in New York tomorrow. Giles had previously called the special meeting to act on the matter.

"Shortly thereafter," a prepared statement said, "the Braves' management will release a detailed statement outlining all the various considerations for any action taken."

Absent at the time the statement was issued were the primary stockholders of the Braves—William C. Bartholomay and Thomas A. Reynolds Jr., both of Chicago—who are reported to be the owners of 40 per cent of the club's stock.

Only One Brave Present

The decision on the franchise shift was made at a meeting earlier in the day.

The only Braves' representative present when the statement was issued was the club's publicity director, Ernie Johnson, who said he had no comment to make after distributing the prepared statement.

The statement, mimeographed only minutes before its distribution at 2:45 P.M., Eastern Daylight time read:

"The Board of Directors of the Milwaukee Braves, Inc., voted today to request permission of the National League to transfer their franchise to Atlanta, Ga., for 1965.

"At the request of Warren Giles, president of the National League, no further information will be released until after the league meeting in New York Thursday.

"Shortly thereafter, the Braves management will release a detailed statement outlining all the various considerations for any action taken."

Syndicate Sought Shift

The long-expected franchise switch was sought by the Chicago-dominated Braves syndicate for "considerations" known to include a 25-year lease on Atlanta's new stadium and expected lush television-radio revenue for sprawling Southeast-

Kings Point and Colgate to Open Shea Stadium College Football

By GORDON S. WHITE Jr.

COLGATE and Kings Point will meet in Shea Stadium's first college football game Saturday, and the contest may be compared to one between baseball's St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Mets at the same park.

The United States Merchant Marine Academy, known as Kings Point, has won only one game under its new coach, Chuck Mills. That was an upset over C. W. Post.

Colgate, on the other hand, is developing to where it could be a strong team the last half of the season.

With two victories and two defeats, the Colgate Red Raiders have one of the strongest defensive teams ever put together by Hal Lahar, a defensive specialist among coaches.

Colgate has yielded only one touchdown from scrimmage. That came late in the game against Columbia, when Archie Roberts ran 13 yards to help the Lions win, 21-14, in the season opener for both teams.

Ray Ilg and John Paske have been the strongest men in the Colgate defensive unit. The two linebackers have four losing seasons as coach at Madison High in Brooklyn. Now he's pleased with a big winning mark of 28 victories and 8 losses in five seasons at Montclair.

"You have to learn by losing," he said. "And at Madison that's just what I was doing—learning. You can get too optimistic if you start out just winning. I think a coach gets to where he believes he knows it all.

"One problem in winning from the start is underestimating the opponent and overestimating your own team. I don't think I was a good coach at Madison. But, though I still think I'm not too good, at least I'm better through learning by losing."

Last year was called the Year of the Quarterback in college football. Buff Donelli, Columbia's coach, believes 1964 is the Year of the Fullback in the East. As examples of powerful, charging backs, Donelli points to his own, Arne Jensen; Jim Nance of Syracuse, who picked up 104 yards against Penn State last Saturday; Chuck Mercein of Yale and Bob Brendel of Rutgers.

Brendel and Jensen will be seen in action when Colum-

NANCE DOES JOB, SYRACUSE ROLLS

Fullback, a Disappointment 2 Years, Now at Peak

By ALLISON DANZIG
Special to The New York Times

SYRACUSE, Oct. 21 — After two years of frustration, Jim Nance is finally performing like another Jim Brown, and Syracuse finds itself among the top college football teams in the nation. The Orange is leading in the race for the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

The fast, hard-hitting 230-pound fullback is given much credit for the Orange's success, which has been achieved despite the departure of most of last year's line and the loss of two of the best ball carriers through injury.

"Nance is a great fullback, as good as there is in the country," Ben Schwartald, the Syracuse coach, said today.

"All of a sudden he's the guy who is making our offense go," the coach went on.

"Our passing attack has amounted to practically zero. Everybody has been overshifting against Floyd Little and taken the outside away from us. And that has made Nance more significant. He is running like he never has before, and he is getting better in each game."

Nance is Syracuse's leading ground-gainer and scorer. He is also a solid blocker. He would be just as strong on defense, the coach said, but Syracuse is using offensive and defensive platoons this year and Nance is in the line-up only when his team has the ball.

Syracuse has come far since the shock of its loss to Boston College in the opening game. There were big problems to overcome in the lack of defensive tackles and linebackers.

The offense was hit hard by the loss of Mike Koski, last year's top scorer, with a knee injury, then of Billy Hunter, the starting right halfback, and Nat Duckett, another leading back.

Koski and Hunter are out for the season. But Duckett's leg is coming around and he is expected to work behind Ron Oyer at right half on the offensive unit.

Other injured players have been rounding into shape to add to Syracuse's strength. Among them are Harris Elliot, one of the three best offensive ends; Paul Houle, out with an appendectomy, then an ankle injury; at defensive right half, and Gerry Everling, middle guard in the five-man line.

Ewbank Calls for Top Jet Effort Against Unbeaten Bills Saturday

By DEANE MCGOWEN

The Buffalo Bills, the only undefeated team in professional football, were the primary topic of conversation at the New York Jets' weekly luncheon yesterday.

The Jets go to Buffalo to face the Eastern Division leaders of the American Football League Saturday night, and for the charges of Weeb Ewbank the game will be the moment of truth.

"Their personnel is excellent and has been right along," Ewbank said. "Only injuries have kept this club from winning the championship. Now they seem to be ready for an outstanding year."

"But I think the Jets still have to reach their potential. We came close to it in the first half against Houston last Saturday night. Our first half was an example of fine teamwork. But what we're going to need to beat the Bills is a second half equal to the one we put together against the Oilers."

Gilchrist, Kemp Cited

Among the personnel Ewbank has in mind are Cookie Gilchrist the 250-pound fullback who makes his own line openings, and Elbert Dubenion, probably the fleetest pass receiver in the league.

The Bills, according to Ewbank, have been using Jack Kemp most of the time at quarterback.

Kemp has responded to Coach Lou Saban's confidence by directing Buffalo to six successive victories.

"Kemp has been doing a great job, especially in throwing the home run," Ewbank said. "He is dangerous any place on the field."

But the Jets' major concern is Buffalo's awesome defense. The Bills, anchored by Tom Sestak at right tackle, lead the league in total defense, allowing 243.5 yards per game, 155 per game in passing.

Winston Hill, a 22-year-old, had won the job from Klotz.

The Bills also lead in total offense—397 yards a game, 254 yards passing and 143 rushing.

Jets Have the Power

The Jets' tough defense plus the running of Matt Snell and the passing of Dick Wood are being counted on by Ewbank to handle the Bills.

Snell, the rookie fullback who pulverizes tacklers with his instant take-off running and his second-effort power, is the New York answer to Gilchrist.

The Bills' defensive unit has not encountered anything like Snell and the Ohio State rookie is sure to leave quite an impression.

Willing to Play Giants

David A. (Sonny) Werblin, the club president, was asked if the Jets would be willing to play the New York Giants in a charity game.

"We most certainly would," Werblin said. "We are not challenging the Giants, but if the game was on the order of a Mayor's Trophy game—such as the Yankees and Mets play—we would be glad to meet the Giants. In fact we would be glad to meet any National League team—for charity or in the pre-season exhibitions."

"We want to play National League teams," Werblin continued. "We feel we are ready now to perform respectably. We wouldn't be embarrassed, this year or next. Last year? We couldn't have stopped The Little Sisters of the Poor."

Ewbank also disclosed that the Jets had put Jack Klotz on waivers and the 29-year-old offensive tackle had been picked up by Houston. Ewbank said the Jets were ready to release Klotz three games ago, but kept him on the active roster to make him eligible for the pension plan.

Winston Hill, a 22-year-old, had won the job from Klotz.

ATLANTA'S MAYOR IS A BRAVES FAN

Allen Says Shift Would Be Good for Baseball, South

Special to The New York Times

ATLANTA, Oct. 21 — Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., said today that if the Milwaukee Braves moved to Atlanta the shift would make baseball truly a "national" pastime.

He said the move, if approved tomorrow by the National League, at a meeting in New York, would "give the 24 million people who live in the seven Southeastern states a share in the major leagues."

The Mayor, a 53-year-old former businessman who had politically gambled in a heavy way by backing the construction of an $18 million stadium, received the news and a flurry of congratulatory telephone calls almost simultaneously at City Hall.

The Mayor planned to leave tonight with Arthur Montgomery, the chairman of the Atlanta-Fulton Stadium Authority, and Opie Shelton, the executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, for New York. They will meet National League officials tomorrow.

The long expected franchise switch was sought by the Chicago-dominated Braves syndicate for "considerations" known to include a 25-year lease on Atlanta's new stadium and expected lush television-radio revenue for sprawling Southeastern coverage of a major league team.

The National League meeting in New York tomorrow probably will bring strong official protests from Milwaukee civic leaders, who have threatened legal action if the Braves move to Atlanta.

Milwaukee County officials are demanding that the Braves fulfill a 1965 contract to play in Milwaukee.

A group of Milwaukee businessmen have offered to negotiate for purchase of the Braves, but the team owners have told them the club is not for sale.

Comic confusion preceded the release of the statement. After many reporters were directed by Bartholomay to a hotel suite earlier in the day, they were instructed to remain there until summoned by phone to the Braves office downtown.

Five taxicabs were waiting to take reporters from the hotel to the Braves headquarters.

6 Oppose Braves' Move

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (UPI)—Six directors of the Milwaukee Braves said today after the board had voted to transfer the franchise to Atlanta that they were "unalterably opposed" to the move.

A spokesman for the six said all voted against the move. It was learned the final vote was 12-6 in favor of the transfer.

There are 23 directors of the ball club, but only 18 attended the meeting.

The statement opposing the move was signed by Edmund B. Fitzgerald, Duane Bowman, Daniel Parker, John Puelicher, Joseph Simpson and Carlton Wilson.

"We are unalterably opposed to the transfer . . . for reasons which we feel would be detrimental to this corporation, to baseball in general, and which would violate the public trust . . . these reasons are of an economic, legal and moral nature."

The Braves were the first major league club to transfer a franchise in this century when they moved from Boston to Milwaukee in 1953, drawing 1,826,397 and setting a National League attendance mark.

Speculation had been rampant for two years that the Braves, purchased by their present owners at that time, would shift the franchise. Atlanta became the probable new location more than a year ago.

Construction began last spring on an $18 million stadium in Atlanta. Informed sources said the Braves had been committed to move there.

William C. Bartholomay, chairman of the board of the Braves, and other members, however, denied periodically that not only was no move committed, but also that none was contemplated.

Racial Situation Feared

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21 (UPI)—Lee Maye, Negro outfielder for the Milwaukee Braves, said today he feared racial discrimination in Atlanta. "I just hope and pray we don't go," he added.

Maye, a native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., who finished the 1963 season as one of the top hitters in the National League, said: "I don't want to go there, but against Columbia, when Archie Roberts ran 13 yards to help the Lions win, 21-14, in the season opener for both teams.

Ray Ilg and John Paske have been the strongest men in the Colgate defensive unit. The two linebackers have barred the road, with Ilg acting as the roamer and Paske as the stationary center man, daring opponents to try the middle.

Mills has brought the information to Kings Point. This alignment depends on power up the middle. Princeton, which beat Colgate, 9-0, last week, used the I about 30 percent of the time against the Red Raiders. It was to no avail. The Tigers scored on a 22-yard field goal and the recovery of a fumbled hand-off in the Colgate backfield.

The Red Raiders' scoring punch is not too effective. But Kings Point may be lucky to score. Last week the Mariners dropped a 37-0 decision to Bucknell.

"It's good our team was up for that game or we'd have been killed," Mills said.

His squad will have to be way up at 1:30 P.M. Saturday at Shea Stadium.

Jerry Edwards, coach of undefeated Montclair State, is glad for the experience of

if the Braves go I have to go. That's my obligation."

Maye and Henry Aaron, the Braves' great right fielder who is also a Negro, had expressed concern about moving to Atlanta ever since it had become apparent that the team wanted to go.

The owner of the Chicago Cubs, Philip K. Wrigley, said today he would approve the transfer of the Milwaukee Braves franchise to Atlanta at tomorrow's Donnell points to his own Atlanta-Fulton Stadium Authority and Opie Shelton the executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, for New York. They will meet National League officials tomorrow.

Warren Giles, president of the league, and officials of the Braves are expected to return to Atlanta with the three Atlanta officials for festivities Friday.

Racial Problem Discounted

Mayor Allen was asked about reports that some Negro members of the Braves team, and in particular Hank Aaron and Lee Maye, did not want to move to Atlanta because they feared racial discriminations.

He replied: "Both Hank Aaron and Lee Maye are great ballplayers. They've made tremendous contributions to the league they play in. I am certain they would find Atlanta a most receptive town and that once they try it they will be exceedingly happy."

"I'm sure that the members of no major league or minor league ball club with established homes ever left without there being some problem of family movement. People generally like to stay where they are."

Negro players have been prominent for some time with the Atlanta Crackers, an International League team.

As for the propriety of the Atlanta officials' obtaining the Braves' commitment, the mayor said:

"I don't think anything has been handled more properly and more above-board. Major league franchises have been moved before. It is recognized that when a city loses attraction for a club it moves out."

Mayor Allen had taken a big political risk in rushing the city stadium inward completion before having a commitment from any major league team. The city also has hopes of using the stadium for professional football.

Television rights almost certainly were a big part of the lure for the Braves, but information about any television arrangements has been well-guarded. The mayor declined to comment on this.

Circuit Judge Ronald Drechsler late today issued a temporary injunction restraining the Milwaukee Braves from moving. Milwaukee County officials obtained the temporary injunction shortly after the Braves' board of directors voted 12-6 to transfer the franchise to Atlanta.

Yanks Place 3 Players On Major League All-Stars

The New York Yankees placed the most players, Mickey Mantle, Elston Howard and Bobby Richardson, on the Associated Press' annual major league baseball all-star team yesterday. But two Los Angeles pitchers, Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers and Dean Chance of the Angels, collected the most votes.

Koufax, the winner of 19 games before he was sidelined for the season by a sore arm in mid-August, polled 77 votes as the outstanding left-hander. Chance, a 20-game winner for the Angels, drew 71 as the top right-hander in the ballot by 85 baseball writers.

The team:
 First baseman, Bill White, St. Louis (11), 303; second baseman, Bobby Richardson, New York (A.), 267; third baseman, Brooks Robinson, Baltimore (A.), 277; shortstop, Jim Fregosi, Los Angeles (A.), 277; outfielder, Roberto Clement, Pittsburgh (N.J.), 339; outfielder, Willie Mays, San Francisco (N.J.), 296; pitcher, Mickey Mantle, New York (A.), 313; right-handed pitcher, Dean Chance, Los Angeles (A.), 209; left-handed pitcher, Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles (A.), 195.

the three best offensive ends Paul Houle, out with an appendectomy, then an ankle injury, at defensive right half, and Gerry Everling, middle guard in the five-man line.

Bruised by Penn State

Despite the improving outlook and with the team ranked second nationally in defense, Schwartzwalder is chary about predicting the outcome of games with Oregon State, Pittsburgh and Army the next three Saturdays.

The Penn State game last week, for which the Orange is keyed up annually more than almost any other, was a battering one and also drained the team emotionally. It was not won by Syracuse until the last minute.

"I have never had so many kids bruised up as we did in the Penn State game," Schwartzwalder said. "They hit us real hard and I don't mean any reflection on them by that."

"The question is this week can we recover from the physical beating we took and play our best football against another hard nose team like Oregon State. They are a real hard-hitting team and we have to go all the way out there to play them."

Its running attack and defense have brought Syracuse through against Kansas, Holy Cross, the University of California, Los Angeles, and Penn State. But Schwartzwalder doubts that will be sufficient to keep the Orange on top for the rest of the schedule.

"We have got to get our passing going," he said. "Penn State grabbed three of our passes. And also we have got to find a way to utilize the running ability of Little more in spite of our opponents' setting their defenses against him."

Sophomores are playing a prominent part in Syracuse's success. In addition to Little who scored five touchdowns against Kansas, and has run back punts 71 and 90 yards for touchdowns, they include Herb Stecker, a crack defensive end, Jim Cheyunki and Muray Johnson, linebackers; Gary Bugenhagen, offensive tackle; Harris Wienke, center; Jahn Krok tackle, and Terrell Roe and Dan Healey, backs.

Right-Hander Sent to Indians as Part of Ramos Deal

By JOSEPH DURSO

The New York Yankees sold Ralph Terry to the Cleveland Indians yesterday as part of their home-stretch deal for Pedro Ramos.

The exchange ended a Yankee career for Terry that began in 1953, when he was a 17-year-old pitcher claimed by both the Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals. The commissioner of baseball, Ford C. Frick, decided that he belonged to the Yankees.

Terry played three seasons in the minor leagues, went up to the Yanks in 1956, was traded to Kansas City in 1957 and was reacquired by the Yankees two years later. He won 58 games over three
