

Experts to Review Housing Bias Here

The Georgia State Advisory Committee to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission will hold a two-day open meeting on discrimination in public and private housing in the Greater Atlanta Metropolitan Areas beginning Friday.

Dr. Vivian W. Henderson, president of Clark College and chairman of the state advisory committee, announced that the group will collect information on alleged discrimination and its effects on school desegregation and community tensions, and examine ways in which the state, federal and local governments and private organizations can combat housing discrimination.

Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen will welcome the group at 1 p.m. Directors of the Atlanta, DeKalb and Atlanta Metropolitan Area Planning commissions have been invited to appear Friday. Also invited are Housing Authority officials from cities in the metropolitan area, the Fulton County Welfare director, the regional director of the Federal Housing Assistance Administration and the vice chairman of the Georgia Council on Human Relations. The session is to conclude at 6 p.m.

Officials of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, American Friends Service Committee and National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing will appear Saturday, with representatives of the mortgage banking, real estate and home building industries.

The two-day meeting will be in the federal district courtroom on the third floor of the Old Post Office building on Forsyth St. NW.

The Georgia committee is one of 51 national groups whose members serve without compensation to inform the commission of civil rights matters in their communities and to disseminate information about federal laws and programs.
