Mr. Everett Millican, City Alderman
City Hall
56 Mitchell Street, S. W.
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

Each time I am involved in one of Atlanta's now famous traffic jams on the expressway, I remember your vigorous battle to defeat the Rapid Transit program in the elections last fall. When I further contemplate the tens of thousands of hours that are lost daily by irate motorists in Atlanta, I wonder how in clear conscience you could have opposed the means of alleviating these frustrating traffic situations.

At the time of your opposition you promised an alternative, but I have seen no alternative and I think the people of Atlanta, from everything that I can judge in conversation, are fed up with the procrastinating, do-nothing policy which you have pursued. You may be sure that the memories of these people will be long at the next election.

Perhaps I have misjudged you - perhaps you have presented a workable alternative. If so, I would certainly be glad to know about it or any other plans that you may have as an elected representative of the people of Atlanta to try to save the one thing that can stifle Atlanta's growth and progress toward a brilliant future.

Yours very truly,

FJW:eh

Dear Mr. Mayor:

In view of your lively interest and superb efforts toward making Atlanta one of the greatest of American cities, I thought you should have a copy of this letter which I have addressed to Mr. Millican.

Best regards
Fred Walters
