

When Reason Replaces Hotheaded Jingoism There Are Many Advantages To Both Sides

For whatever personal or selfish reasons they may have, some forces seem determined to blacken the name of this southwest section of the city, and to crucify Atlanta's courageous and conscientious Mayor.

As in most controversial circumstances, there are definitely two sides to the problems climaxed by the closing recently of Harlan and Peyton Roads. Over a period of several months, this newspaper has been reporting, and the city administration has been wrestling with, all aspects of this complicated situation.

Very few Negroes will be affected in any way by these closed streets. And there is strong evidence that very, very few of our colored friends have even the least concern about the roads being closed. The small handful who are making such a fuss are all real estate brokers who naturally see a great opportunity for personal profit in breaking an exclusive white neighborhood. These Negro leaders all know full well the advantages to their own people in the various changes involved in closing these streets, and they know there was strong and logical justification for the action taken, entirely apart from any racial lines, but they have consistently ignored these facts.

THE WEEKLY STAR feels that the people throughout this area, white and colored, need to be reminded again of all the circumstances involved in this problem for southwest Atlanta.

First of all, the action taken by the City, recommended by the Mayor, unanimously approved by the Public Works Committee that handles such matters, and accepted by the entire Board of Aldermen, was intended to benefit the Negro community, just as much as it was to stabilize the white community in that borderline area.

The Mayor has repeatedly stressed the fact that numerous advantages accrue to the colored community by the closing of Peyton and Harlan Roads. Some 200 new homes can be opened up in that area between the point at which the city has abandoned the roads, and Gordon Road. This should provide a substantial and immediate advantage for new living areas for the Negroes seeking residences in that section.

In his annual report just the other day, the Mayor asked the Board of Aldermen once again to study and take prompt action upon the housing needs of our Negro friends. After describing the unfortunate impasse created by a small group of selfish individuals in this southwest section, the Mayor made this statement:

"As I have observed the working out of these neighborhood transitions, it has become very clear to me that we must take positive action to open up large new areas to provide places for our increasing population to live in. I urge upon you, members of the Board of Aldermen, that you put a high priority on a comprehensive study to show where such areas can be opened up and that when

JORDAN'S Jottings

By DUPREE JORDAN, JR.

Perhaps we are fast getting old, or are already much older than we are willing to admit. But we are more and more bothered every day by the drastic and dramatic changes that are taking place around us.

It seems that all too rapidly the human element is being removed from most of our routine daily activities. In more situations every day, we are having the personal contacts of the past replaced by cold and impersonal mechanical procedures of the present. We have commented upon these changes on numerous occasions in the past, but they continue to be more apparent in our activities every day, and we are increasingly inclined to rebel against them.

The rapidly expanding technology of our world today and the multiplying complexity of the scientific age in which we live probably dictates the necessity of these changes, but it would be almost impossible for anyone to ever convince us that the changes are really for the better.

We have been bothered for a long time by the removal of any semblance of personal contact or concern on the part of the telephone company. We know that Southern Bell has some of the finest people in the world working for them, and some of our very best personal friends are employees of that splendid organization. Nevertheless, we seem to encounter more difficulties every day in using the magic instruments of Alexander Graham Bell. Multiplied millions of dollars have been poured into the development and perfection of the most advanced electronic instruments which are working wonders for this splendid company. But machines do break

First Fallout Shelter Stocked At Sylvan High

Atlanta's first public fallout shelter was stocked last week, at Sylvan Hills High School, 1461 Sylvan Road, S.W. Atlanta City employees moved the supplies by trucks from the Atlanta General Depot to J.C. Fain, principal. The 30 cartons were placed in the shelter supply storage area.

The Sylvan Hills High School public shelter, marked with the standard yellow and black shelter sign, is located in the gymnasium area. It will accommodate 61 people and has a protective factor of 100. This means that this shelter, and other posted as public shelters, afford 100 times more protection from radioactive fallout than outdoors.

The provisioning supplies include sufficient food, water, sanitation and medical kits, and radiation detection instruments to sustain 61 people 14 days.

Although 121 buildings in the metropolitan area already have been posted with yellow and black fallout signs assigning them as public shelters,

Attack On Road Barrier Fails In Atlanta Board

by Joseph H. Baird
Political Editor

A resolution calling for removal of the barriers the city of Atlanta has placed on Peyton and Harlan roads in the Utoy

Forest-Cascade Heights area was defeated in the Board of Aldermen by an 10-3 vote Monday afternoon. It was introduced by Alderman Rodney M. Cook who said erection of the barriers had damaged Atlanta's image in the eyes of the nation.

The attack on Mr. Cook's resolution was led by Alderman Milton Farris of the Seventh Ward who denied that closing of the two roads was an effort to halt Negro penetration of the area had hurt Atlanta's reputation. He

Citizens Group Asks New City Bond Issue

A new City of Atlanta bond issue not to exceed $45,000,000 and including funds for the west end neighborhood renewal project has been recommended to Mayor Ivan Allen and the Board of Aldermen by the Citizens Bond Study Commission.

EDGAR E. SCHUKRAFT

Edgar Schukraft of West End served as chairman of the sub-committee on projects. It is anticipated that the report will be approved by the city government, and the new issue submitted to a vote of the people about May.

While the City of Atlanta issue will not include any street funds for West End, Mr. Schukraft has been encouraged by Fulton county officials to believe that the county bond issue will provide for several major projects here. It is expected that the county will also present an issue in May. Among those projects being advocated by West End leaders are:

1. Widening and repaving of Ashby Street from Oak Street to Lee Street.
2. Widening and paving of White Street from Cascade Avenue to Ashby Street and running behind the houses on Rose Circle.
3. Widening and repaving of Gordon Street from Peoples Street to Cascade Avenue.
4. Construction of an underpass at Lawton Street.
5. Widening of Stewart Avenue from Dill Avenue to Glenn Street.

The proposed new bond issue completely omits such controversial items -- included in the bond issue defeated last August -- as the improvement of Piedmont Park and

"The Star Is Rising"

Deciding on a new name for this column is almost like deciding on a new name for myself. It presents many problems, and takes on an aura of responsibility I hadn't counted on.

First of all, and most important too is the fact that the current contest now being staged to help me find a "new head" for the weekly column has thus far been a staggering success. It didn't dawn on me that my call for "Help" in this direction would bring such a response. And all of your kind comments have gone a bit to my head, and I am sure that your generous bits of flattery have tended to swell my ego. However, just enough criticism has been received to mix and mingle with the other good ingredients, to make, I believe, a stable mixture.

down, and if ever the electronic marvels are ever to give trouble, they will invariably act up when we have anything to do with them.

It seems that almost every other number we dial now, either gives us the wrong number of connects us with some recorded message, which always somehow infuriates us. And when you try repeatedly through conventional channels, and never can get the gadget to work properly, and finally give up in total exasperation and try dialing the Operator, it seems to take forever to get a real live person on the line.

Not only does it take forever to get a real live operator on the line nowadays, but when you finally reach her she is a highly specialized individual who never knows anything about the particular question you have. When you wait endlessly, for example, through a recorded announcement that you know by heart, and it winds up by saying "If you have any further questions just wait on the line and an operator will be happy to answer them for you"; you wait endlessly on the line, and when the operator finally says: "May I help you?", you quickly discover that she cannot at all. When you tell her that you have been calling a certain number, the only information she can supply is the fact that that is not a working number. You have long since come to that conclusion, but you have no idea what reference number should be given from the old one, and the operator you are talking with has no idea how to find the individual you are seeking.

The contest will continue throughout this month, so those of you who have not sent in your suggestions have another couple of weeks to help me make my decision. All I am asking is that you send me your idea for a new name for this column. Since I rather inherited this name, and since my weekly comments are not entirely directed toward the female readership of our newspaper. I have wanted another name to better describe my weekly ramblings.

Please let me encourage you to enclose comments or suggestions and criticisms, so that the end result will mean better writing, reporting and reading than ever before. And all you need to do is address your ideas to: Margret Ross, Box 10888, Atlanta 10, Georgia.

Thanks again for your help and encouragement. All entries will be considered that are received by January 31, and will remain the property of the newspaper. Send your "name" to me today.

Now this whole sordid business has invaded the banking field in a big way. Everything about these financial institutions is being completely mechanized, and the enormous thinking machines are not thinking very well.

All through the years we have had no end of difficulty with little problems on our household account, the personal checking account that the Beautiful Wife has used to care for family expenses. But in the past she has always been able to iron out any discrepancies or difficulties with the account simply by talking on the telephone with the cheerful personalities at our branch bank. But now those individual humans have regrettably informed us that all their previous functions have been taken over by machines at a vast central office, and that they no longer have any direct control over any of their accounts.

Unfortunately, machines still make mistakes, and usually when they make them it is really a dilly. We are ready to admit that perhaps the big electronic monsters do not make nearly as many mis-

Next Monday there will convene in Atlanta a General Assembly in which, for the first time in nearly two generations, the urban people of the state have something approaching a fair representation. On the following day the first governor to be elected by popular voting in nearly half a century will be inaugurated.

These two events should mean the dawning of a new era in Georgia—one in which both the Assembly and the Governor are responsible to the people of Georgia as a whole rather than to the "court house rings" in the rural counties which for so many years have dominated the state.

This does not mean "city domination" of the state, as the citizens in some of the rural counties appear to believe. As a matter of fact, the state's 121 counties still control a majority of votes in the House of Representatives which will give them an effective veto on any action they believe is unfair to the rural areas.

At the same time, urban counties like Fulton and DeKalb will have, for the first time in memory, enough political strength on Capitol Hill to make their voices heard. This is due partly to the fact that the urban vote played a major role in the election of our new governor, Carl E. Sanders, and partly to the increased strength of the urban sections in the reorganized Senate. There, for example, the Atlanta Metropolitan area (or specifically Fulton, DeKalb and Cobb counties) will have a total of 12 senators, or nearly one-fourth of the total membership.

What we hope to see instead of an urban vs. rural contest in the Assembly is a realization that the needs and hopes of all Georgians are basically similar. We are convinced that past differences between the city and country people of the state were more in the creation of politicians for their own selfish ends than any real differences in purpose.

The primary needs of all Georgians are the same whether you consider the citizens of Atlanta or of a rural village like Ty Ty. These are better schools, better roads, better health, care for the needs of indigent persons and a fair and honest judicial system.

In the past the allotment of state money has been, under the control of rural politicians, grossly unfair to the larger counties. It can be expected that now their political power is greater, they will demand their fair share of state revenues—but no more. With the political storm and stress of our last year now fading into history, we look forward to an era of progress and growth for all Georgia.

THE POLITICAL GAME

Vandiver Leaves With Good Record

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
Political Editor

People have told me over the years that newspapermen are born with a streak of perversity that makes them happier to criticize a man than to praise him. I presume to doubt this. I prefer to think that when one writes mainly in the field of public affairs the role of constructive critic is more useful to the reader than that of apologist.

So long, that is, as the criticism is accurate, valid and not motivated by personal dislike of an official. When a political writer lets his emotional feeling toward a public man control what he puts in print, he is finished—or soon will be.

This is prefatory to saying that I enjoy the opportunity now and then to let out the stops in praising a public official when he has made an outstanding record in the office he holds. And I believe that Georgia's retiring governor, Ernest Vandiver, has done this.

Being human, he has not achieved perfection. But a summing up of his administration leaves him, I believe, with a very high batting average on successes and failures and a record of which both he and the people of Georgia can be proud.

When the retiring governor held his final press conference last week a reporter asked him to recall what he considered the outstanding accomplishments of his administration. Gov. Vandiver apparently had anticipated the question, and had prepared a memorandum to answer it. Here are some of the major accomplishments of the four Vandiver years:

Beginning with a $6,000,000 deficit, he will leave office takes as fallible humans, but they certainly are not infallible, and we have already discovered that it takes much longer to uncover and remedy errors made by a machine, than the lesser though more frequent errors made formerly by live human beings. All told, we very definitely and strongly prefer the old system.

with a $17,000,000 surplus. This has been accomplished despite a $100,000,000 program of expanded state services, $850,000,000 invested in new building programs for roads, schools, hospitals and other facilities, a $700 per year pay raise for teachers and $200 for school bus drivers.

And there has been no increase in taxes.

One of the high spots of the Vandiver administration was his handling of the school integration crisis that came suddenly in early 1961 when a Federal judge ordered the University of Georgia to admit two Negro students.

The governor had pledged during his campaign that he would do his utmost to maintain complete segregation in the schools. Honoring this pledge, he ordered Attorney General Eugene Cook to exhaust every legal move to keep the Negro students out. He even attempted to cut off funds to the university, but was blocked by a Federal court order.

Finally, Gov. Vandiver was faced with the alternative of obeying the Federal courts or defying the U. S. Government. To his everlasting credit, he chose the former course. Calling the General Assembly into extraordinary night session, he asked for the outright repeal of Georgia's school segregation laws. The Legislature upheld him by a large majority.

By taking this action in the face of intense criticism from some politicians, Gov. Vandiver avoided the bloodshed, shame and disgrace into which Gov. Ross Barnett recently plunged Mississippi.

Another outstanding act of statesmanship by Gov. Vandiver was seen last winter when he urged the General Assembly to resume its long-abandoned control over the budget. As a result of a constitutional amendment passed as a result of the Governor's recommendation, the General Assembly henceforth will pass a new appropriations bill every two years and exercise complete control over state finances.

Other outstanding legislation passed as a result of Gov. Vandiver's urging includes:

The "Honesty in Government" bill.

The "Open Records Act" to safeguard freedom of the press.

Establishment of a Fraud Unit in the Revenue Department.

Strengthening of the Merit System to protect career state employees.

Insuring the state interest on its idle funds.

Gov. Vandiver returns to his home in Lavonia knowing he has done a capable, honest, intelligent job for the people of Georgia. His retirement to private life may be brief. He is young, and probably will be called to public service again.

none had been stocked before today. Other marked shelters in Atlanta will be stocked in coming weeks under the direction of the Atlanta Metropolitan Area Civil Defense.

The food consists of wheat-flour based biscuits that look like graham crackers but taste like animal crackers. Five pounds of these biscuits afford 10,000 calories for two weeks of shelter habitation. The nutritional low-protein content biscuits minimize water requirements and were developed as the result of a three year study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

They are packed in metal hermetically sealed cans overpacked in fiber cartons.

Tap water at Sylvan High School will be used to fill the light-weight metal drum and plastic bag drum liner according to approved filling procedure. The metal drum is approximately 17 inches in diameter, 25 inches high and contains 17.5 gallons (70 quarts) of water to serve five people. This amounts to 14 quarts of water per person for a 14-day period. The water will keep indefinitely in sealed containers.

The water drum and sanitary kit, together, supply the means to utilize the empty water container as a commode using parts supplied in the sanitation kit.

Dear Mr. Jordan:
As we reach the end of 1962 and look back upon the many notable events which took place, one thing that stands out in my memory of Chamber of Commerce happenings is the splendid cooperation we received from Jordan Enterprises, Inc.

Your weeklies, particularly WEEKLY STAR, gave us excellent coverage throughout the year. We recall especially the pictures you ran from our Expressways Luncheon in the spring.

We extend you every good wish for a Happy New Year along with our appreciation for your help in 1962.

Sincerely,
Ben Gilmer

Mr. DuPree Jordan, Publisher
The Weekly Star
Atlanta, 10, Georgia

Dear Sir:
We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Board of Alderman, the Public Works Committee, and more specifically Mayor Allen, Milton Farris, and Jack Summers for their unqualified support concerning the closings of Peyton and Harlan Roads. These men chose to stand up and be counted supporting a just cause in the face of severe criticism. We certainly hope that all the people of Atlanta will send their personal thanks to our Mayor and to their Aldermen supporting their stand.

The Atlanta Newspapers have cited the action of the Mayor and Aldermanic Board as the most inhuman act ever committed by city officials. However, they have yet to cite the real reasons which prompted these road closings. We agree, and are in sympathy with the Negro expansion problem, even though it has been greatly magnified. However, they have yet to cite the real reasons which prompted these road closings. We agree, and are in sympathy with the Negro expansion problem, even though it has been greatly magnified. However, we do not feel that the proper solution to their problem is encroachment into an established all-white community. The only equitable answer we feel, is for Negro community to submit their problem to the Metropolitan Planning Commission. This Commission could then appoint a group of men to investigate and make recommendations for a solution; a solution which does not violate the rights of others.

INEZ ROBB WRITES

A Writer's Mail Shows Feelings Of The Nation

There are days when I dream of setting up shop in opposition to Dr. Gallup and all the other pulse and/or poll takers. My hunch is that a columnist's mail-box contains a pretty reliable cross-section of public opinion.

In recent weeks the pony express delivery to me indicates that 99 percent of the populace is delighted with the nation's first Christmas stamp, 100 percent of the public is clamoring to save Thanksgiving as the All-American holiday and prevent it being swallowed up as a mere preliminary to Christmas; and 82 percent of the correspondents heartily dislike the new, sterile-glass York's fabulously expensive Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts.

Many persons do find religious significance in the country's first attempt at a Christmas stamp. The charge that the stamp has no religious feeling is passionately refuted by letters from every part of the nation in which it is pointed out that the burning candles symbolize Christ, the Light of the World, while the evergreen wreath, a perfect circle, expresses the "eternity of God, now and forever without end."

Whether one chooses to accept this interpretation or not, it is a beautiful conception and one that obviously gives great pleasure to many Americans. As for the popularity of the stamp, the branch post office nearest my home has been out of it for the past three days!

The gradual downgrading of Thanksgiving to a commercial adjunct of the Christmas season worries and infuriates a host of citizens who believe that the uniqueness of Thanksgiving is being lost in premature tinsel and yuletide fawfaraw.

Correspondents from all over the nation note what I had already observed in New York -- that Thanksgiving decorations in stores and public places are a thing of the past.

There is no time -- or room -- for Thanksgiving decor and observations when the Christmas season begins on Nov. 1. The troubled burden of many letters is that we as a nation are overlooking a holiday designed to give thanks for the lavish bounty God has bestowed upon us.

I am delighted that so many persons took me seriously when I wrote: "Would any citizen care to join with me in a Society for the Preservation of Thanksgiving?"

Since so many persons do want to join such a society and ask me bluntly how to save Thanksgiving, I feel I must fish, cut bait or get out of the boat.

So, I would put the rescue of Thanksgiving, and its restoration to its rightful place in

Birthday Party

Georgia's First All Women's American Legion Post No. 224, held its annual Christmas and Birthday party on Thursday, December 20th, at the Elks' Club, Atlanta, Ga. Several guests were present and gifts were exchanged.

There was the Secretary of Agriculture who found his job a thankless one--no matter how he tried, he couldn't say anything to please the farmers.

Once on a farm in Iowa, he was impressed by the finest cornfield he had ever seen. Certain that this was one occasion on which he dared speak, he said to the farmer: "I've never seen such tall corn. You must be very pleased."

"Yeah," replied the farmer, "but it sure takes a lot out of the soil."

the calendar, in the hands of women. They are the real movers and shakers in matters of this kind. If the women's clubs in every community would get behind a move to celebrate Thanksgiving in the old spirit, which began to fade 25 years ago, they could turn the tide.

Let the PTAs plan a real observance of Thanksgiving in the schools. Let the women's organizations bring pressure to bear on merchants to decorate their stores in mid-November NOT for Christmas but for Thanksgiving, as they once did. A committee, representing all the women's clubs in any town, that called upon merchants with such a request would bear weight, and no mistake!

Let the ladies, who do the vast majority of Christmas shopping in this country, tell merchants that there is plenty of time for Christmas decorations and Christmas spirit after Thanksgiving has been properly celebrated.

The churches, where Thanksgiving is still observed, could get in their licks in this matter, too. And powerful licks. Ministerial associations could exert benign influence in behalf of a Day of Thanksgiving.

Women's clubs and church auxiliaries are always looking for good causes to support. What could be a more noble cause than the rescue and restoration of Thanksgiving to its former stature? (c. 1962)

MARQUIS CHILDS CALLING

Holland Has Problems Of Crowds And Growth

THE HAGUE, Netherlands.-- One of the amazing things about this little country is its industrial rebirth following World War II.

Rotterdam, blasted almost out of existence by the Germans, is once again one of Europe's greatest ports. The industrial belt extends from the outskirts of Rotterdam right across the country to Amsterdam, with the emphasis on electronics and electrical products. In their own version of the European miracle the Dutch have drawn heavily on brains and hard work.

While the level of social services is not so generous as in Sweden and Denmark, public welfare is nevertheless skillfully organized and other European countries look to the Netherlands as a model. Wages may not be raised without government approval, which is a discipline the unions accept. Public housing that has a more attractive appearance than the usual barracks-like type of construction is everywhere. Yet for all this organizing

No papers today. I had really forgotten what that phrase meant.

With the exception of the war and some hunting time in deepest bush, plus a few sea voyages, I suppose I have never before been deprived of newspapers -- that is, the major newspapers -- as we are in New York these days. Certainly, when one struck, or some struck, the others continued, and communication was maintained.

Although the waste of a strike on both sides is enormous -- particularly at this time of the year, when newspaper advertising income is at peak and everybody needs more money to spend over the holidays -- possibly a total blackout of written news is morally salubrious, if practically unhandy and certainly inconvenient. It at least demonstrates strikingly the loss of what you take for granted.

The television boys have made a valiant effort to expand their news and features, even going so far as to have some of the press columnists read the efforts which will not see the light of local day. But the effort is not good enough. There is nothing -- nothing! -- which can replace the written word as digested on your own time, for your own interpretation.

I don't actually trust the televisioners, although they mean well. A man reading a piece of news is not really believable to me. He is just an actor in a blue shirt reading something somebody else has usually written, and I find myself watching the highlights of the oil in his hair whilst being bemused by the oil in his voice. Newsreaders to me will always be actors -- just voices -- and their communications will always lack the validity of cold print.

It doesn't work, either, when, as in a recent experiment, some of the actual columnists and experts were allowed to read their own writings on the TV. Somehow the average pure writer lacks the ham quotient to be a good reader of his own works.

And anyhow, good written prose is a far piece away from good spoken prose. You can read an elegant sportswriter such as Red Smith with delight, but on the air the nuances of his prose sound awkward.

In my Sunday doldrums I was listing some of the things I miss about newspapers, which TV or radio cannot supply. You'd be surprised how many irreplaceables there are. For instance, there are no massive notices of sales by stores, no help-wanted ads, and certainly nobody can rent, sell, or buy a house.

Six months later you may be shocked to learn that a friend's wife is dead, because there are no obituaries of any save the newsworthy. You are hard put to find out what's going on in radio or TV, because there are no daily radio or TV listings except in the trade magazines, and they are computed far in advance.

No crossword. No differing editorial opinion -- in fact, no editorial opinion worthy of the name. No columns -- sports, gossip, Hollywood, political, fashion, photography, home-making, cooking, love-love, cosmic, humorous, men-only, women-only, anecdotal, national, local. Just no commentary in column form.

No horoscope for the horoscope nuts. No cartoons -- no loud letters to the editor. No ship arrivals, no betting line on the football teams. No medical advice, no beauty hints, no etiquette tips. And, of course, no comics. Twenty years ago Mayor LaGuardia tried reading them aloud on the radio, but the effort was an artistic tour de force for the Mayor and a flop for the effort.

No real coverage of the big, tough stories, because TV and radio both use a nice-nellie approach to crimes and violence, and there is neither the time nor the space for a solid sob-sister, juicy sidebar approach to the real wringers. And it is a funny thing, but no moving picture of a person or an event ever packs the wallop that a still picture, well-played, can convey to a page of paper which also contains print.

Without the papers, life is only a half-life for the real reader. Gone are the luxurious ten-pound Sunday sections, which made Sunday such a wondrous leisurely day. Gone is that miraculous feeling that you don't have to read it now -- you can wait for the train or until you get home, to absorb your day's grist in slippers with a long drink at your elbow.

We who have spent a lifetime putting papers together have often cursed them. But I think we miss them, too, more than most, when they aren't available. No papers today... It's as if you had turned out the light of the world. (c. 1962)

Without the papers, life is only a half-life for the real reader. Gone are the luxurious ten-pound Sunday sections, which made Sunday such a wondrous leisurely day. Gone is that miraculous feeling that you don't have to read it now -- you can wait for the train or until you get home, to absorb your day's grist in slippers with a long drink at your elbow.

A city slicker decided to outwit one of those "ol' dumb farmers." Having been to several colleges he figured he was pretty bright. He told the farmer he would give a dollar for every riddle the farmer could catch him on. "Since I'm smarter than you," he smiled, "if I catch you, you just owe me 50¢."

The farmer agreed and the slicker told him to ask the first riddle. "What weighs 700 pounds on the ground and only 18 when it flies?"

"I don't know," said the slicker, and handed the farmer a dollar. "What is it?" "I don't know either," said the farmer, and handed him back 50¢.

Therrell High News

BY RICHARD PETTY

The month of January is shaping up as a big one for everyone at Therrell. Four very noteworthy events are on the calendar for this period. Probably one of the least liked but nonetheless most important happenings at the present time is semester final exams. The semester finals determine what progress a student is making in each of his subjects. The testings will be conducted on Thursday, Friday, and Monday, January 10th, 11th, and 14th.

Next of all, January hails the start of regular season basketball competition. The Panther Varsity Cagers having taken a win only from Roosevelt are really hustling. The Pantherettes are presently showing everybody that the Red n' Black knows how to do it. After romping Lakeshore and then dropping one to College Park, they bounced back to gun down Grady, Fulton, Bass, and North Fulton.

Also included for sometime in middle January will be the annual language fair. This spotlights bits of culture from many different countries. All three foreign languages taught at Therrell plus English will be showcased at the fair. Anyone who would like to loan the language dept. an article for the show should contact Mrs. Mary Jane Price, who teaches French at Therrell and is chairman of the show.

7. Funds must be found to let contracts for the east-west Expressway from Lucile Avenue to the river enroute to Douglasville. "The completion of this segment will open up the entire west section of Atlanta, and will eliminate the most hazardous traffic area in Georgia."

8. The urban renewal program in Atlanta must be expanded.

9. A vigorous traffic law enforcement program during the last eight months of 1962 gave Atlanta the "best and safest driving in recent years." As of April 1, the record showed 30 traffic deaths as compared with 13 in the same period of 1961. But in the last eight months Atlanta had 11 fewer fatalities, 244 fewer injuries and 205 fewer property damage accidents than in the same period of 1961. Stringent traffic law enforcement will be continued.

Community Conference On School Dropouts To Be Sponsored By AAUW

Mrs. James F. Ryckley of 696 Flamingo Dr. S. W., a member of AAUW's Elementary and Secondary Education Committee, is on the Steering Committee for a Community Conference on School Dropouts to be sponsored by the Atlanta Branch, American Association of University Women Jan. 19 at the Hotel Biltmore. The day-long session, entitled "Dropouts--Social Dynamite," will bring together experts in the Atlanta metropolitan area who are working on this problem.

Causes will be searched for and solutions outlined in an attempt to find out why only 447 out of 1,000 Georgia children finished high school in 1961--and how to reverse this trend to avoid catastrophe. The dropout of today is the unemployed, the criminal, the welfare case of tomorrow.

Co-sponsors of the Conference are the Active Voters of Atlanta, the Atlanta and Decatur City School Systems, the Cobb, Fulton and DeKalb County School Systems, Fifth District, committee on Children and Youth, Georgia Congress of Parent Teacher Associations, Georgia State Department of Education, United Church Women of Georgia, U. S. Department of Labor, Young Women's Christian Association.

Registration at 9:30 A. M. will be followed by "The Dropout Picture in Georgia and the Atlanta Metropolitan Area" by O. L. Boozer, Director of Records and Services for the Atlanta Public Schools.

Following luncheon at noon, the keynote speaker will be P. F. Ayer, Executive Secretary to the Council of the Southern Mt.s, Inc., special consultant to the Ford Foundation "Gray Areas--Great Cities" project and professor of sociology at Berea (Ky.) College.

Miss Florrie Still, Coordinator of the Visiting Teacher Service of the Georgia Department of Education, will end the morning session as moderator of a panel discussion entitled "Causes and Consequences." Members of the panel will be Mrs. Carolyn Clark, Director of Welfare for DeKalb County, William Allgood, Information Officer for the U. S. Department of Labor, the Hon. Conley Ingram, Judge, Juvenile Court of Cobb County and Dr. W. A. Mason, Consultant on Health Education of the Georgia Department of Health.

The afternoon session will examine "What is Being Done Here." Dr. John Letson, Atlanta School Superintendent, will speak on "Curriculum--the Current Picture and Future Needs." Dr. James Johnson, Emory University psychiatrist, will discuss "Personal Needs of the Pupils." Mr. Ayer will end the Conference with "Evaluation and Recommendations."

Registration fee of $2.75 includes luncheon and information kit. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Edward L. Askren, Registrar, 170 Laurel Forest Circle N. E., Atlanta 5, Ga.

Developmental Reading, a class for building reading speed, comprehension, and vocabulary, will be taught by Mrs. Annie Parremore, resident of Forest Park and teacher at Hapeville High School.

Bridge classes will be taught by Mrs. Margaret Parrish, who has taught YWCA classes for a number of years. A class on Monday evenings will be for beginners and the Tuesday evening class for those who want more advanced instruction.

Operation Alphabet

"Operation Alphabet," a new venture in adult education, began at Lee Street School about two months ago. And since that time remarkable progress has been made.

When the classes began, approximately 30 adults registered for the courses. Several of these remained only a week or so, but the ones that have stuck with the three classes a week have progressed and benefited in both reading and arithmetic.

A striking example of what has taken place has been related by one of the instructors. One young man, who comes all the way from Jonesboro, hasn't missed a session yet. When he first began, he could not read, he could not recognize any words. And neither could he use any of the adding combinations effectively. But this week, the young student read comprehensively a story which appeared on television. He has also written a very good description of the home in which he lives, and one evening last month this same young man added six or seven problems, with four figures across and five figures deep, without an error.

This is just one dramatic example of how "Operation Alphabet" works, and is just one instance where a person has found new reasons to be grateful for his own pluck and determination.

"Operation Alphabet" meets Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday nights weekly from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. Instructions are J. A. Walls, Mrs. Mabel N. Walls and Mrs. Mary Mann.

Aunt Molly Celebrates With Family And Friends

Aunt Molly celebrated her 100th birthday December 30. Mrs. Mary Reeves Dodgen, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Roy N. Mitchell of 680 Erin Avenue, was honored by her family on this grand occasion. Her granddaughter, Mrs. J. K. York, and great-granddaughter, Miss Danna Williams, assisted with the entertaining.

Mrs. John G. Bush, Mrs. Bill Price, Mrs. Frank Shipp of Mobile, Alabama; and Miss Williams served; Mrs. Frank Hasty, Jr. kept the guestbook. Aunt Molly, as she is affectionately known by her host of friends, wore a soft blue silk print which was lovely with a white purple-throated orchid on her shoulder. She has been an active member of the Primitive Baptist Church for 79 years, and is still interested in all the current happenings of the day.

According to her son-in-law she "has cooked more meals for more people than anyone could ever imagine", and still thinks that Saturdays should be spent baking cakes and pies.

Mrs. Dodgen had her immediate family with her on her birthday, and more than 200 friends called during the afternoon. She was delighted with her numerous cards, letters and gifts she received from practically all over the United States. Members of her family present included her daughter and husband with whom she has lived since her husband's death in 1932, Elder and Mrs. Roy N. Mitchell, her son and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dodgen of Macon; her grandchildren, Mrs. J. K.

THE BELL SEAL IS ONE OF AMERICA'S MOST FAMILIAR TRADE MARKS. The original seal was developed by Angus Hibbard, the Bell System's first general manager, and included the words "Long Distance Telephone" inside the outline of a bell which was enclosed in a rectangle. Eventually the wording was changed to "Local and Long Distance Telephone," and still later a double circle replaced the rectangle. The seal, as it now appears, dates from 1939. You'll see this familiar guide to good service on company buildings, on public telephones and in advertising.

GOOD BUSINESS SUGGESTION: Do you use printed stationery for either business or personal correspondence? If so, may we suggest you include your area code and telephone number in the letterhead. If you own your own business, belong to clubs and organizations, or do a great deal of personal correspondence, it's a good idea to give folks your phone number as well as your address.

LONG DISTANCE IS A BARGAIN ANY TIME OF DAY... but it's an especially good buy after 6:00 p.m. on weekdays or any time on Sundays and holidays, when bargain rates are in effect. Also remember that rates are lowest if you call station-to-station. A long distance call is the next best thing to being there.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED to the familiar fleet of green trucks and vans driven by your telephone company installer-repairman. The new compact van is a complete service shop on wheels, an important part of the fast, efficient service that's always available when you need it.

DID YOU KNOW THAT about 40 per cent of all overseas calls are with Pan American countries? About 30 per cent go to the Pacific and 25 per cent are with European countries. The rest are to scattered countries and ships at sea.

Citizens Group

The major part of the Atlanta bond issue will be devoted to such vital necessities as schools, traffic improvement, storm sewers and a few parks. The one major project not in these categories is $10,000,000 for a new city auditorium and convention center, with emphasis on the latter use. The bond study commission estimated that Atlanta is now losing millions of dollars each year because it lacks a suitable place for holding large national conventions.

No raise in ad valorem taxes is contemplated in the bond report. Instead, the bonds would be financed by a 30 per cent tax on water bills as a service charge on use of the city's sanitary sewers. Such a tax -- estimated to cost the average user about $6.00 annually -- has been imposed by DeKalb, Cobb, Clayton and other counties for many years.

It is estimated that the bonds will meet the city's pressing needs for about three years. Meanwhile, an effort will be made to obtain more state funds for Atlanta schools and other municipal expenses.

The bond commission pointed out that Atlanta and Fulton county pay approximately 25 per cent of the state's total revenue, but receive only 8 per cent of the school funds disbursed under the Minimum Foundation Act for Education. "An equitable distribution of these funds could reduce the burden on local taxpayers by several million dollars annually", the bond commission's report said. "We urge local government officials to continue vigorously to seek greater equity in the distribution of all types of aid." As a preliminary step, the advisory commission made a study of why the City of Atlanta bond issue failed last August and how people felt about another bond issue.

They found that 70 per cent of the voters and 61 per cent of the non-voters in last August's election favored the proposal of another bond issue. Only 15 per cent of those questioned said they would not vote for improvement bonds under any condition. There was less enthusiasm for the auditorium than for any of the other new proposals, but the commission felt it to be vital to the city's growth and prosperity.

Specific issues recommended by the citizens advisory committee, of which Ed Smith, president of the First National Bank was chairman, were as follows:

SCHOOLS -- $20,000,000. There are presently 7,000 children on double sessions, and the school population is increasing by between 3,000 and 4,000 annually. This amount will meet the pressing need for new school facilities over the next three years. TRAFFIC IMPROVEMENT --- $6,500,000. This would include, among other projects, the widening of Simpson Road to provide a new traffic artery to the west side of Atlanta, and also would

All About Babies

A public service of the National Baby Care Council Baby's Nursery--

By Dr. Louis B. Wexler, Attending Dermatologist Beekman Downtown Hospital and Fordham Hospital, New York

A baby's skin differs from that of an adult and requires special care. It is more sensitive and easily affected.

Not only is baby's skin thinner, it has less keratin, a protein substance which forms the base of the skin, and less pigment, the skin's coloring matter. With both of these substances in short supply, the ability of baby's skin to protect itself against sunlight, friction and changes in temperature is not as great as that of adults.

What is more, many of the sebaceous (oil) glands found in the skin of adults are not fully developed in the baby's skin. The baby's skin, for example, has underdeveloped sebaceous glands in the diaper area; that is, in the groin and the anal regions. Thus, the protective oils secreted by the sebaceous glands are not present in the natural folds of skin in this area making these folds vulnerable to infection and disease.

Perhaps the most important element in the proper care of a baby's skin is the changing of the diaper as soon as it is wet or soiled. For three of the principal causes of diaper rash are contained in a wet diaper.

It is the natural decomposition of the urine in the diaper by certain bacteria that results in the foundation of ammonia, a powerful skin irritant. The wet diaper also seems to emphasize the presence of any traces of irritating soap and detergent which have not been completely rinsed away after washing. It also seems to be a suitable environment for the skin-irritating bacteria that have survived the diaper's washing because washing is not sterilizing.

Most doctors as well as the American Medical Association are agreed that the processing of diapers by a professional diaper service is far more effective in restraining the growth of ammonia-forming bacteria and in removing irritating soaps and detergents than any home laundering.

Changing the diaper as soon as it becomes wet also prevents the softening of the baby's skin. Softened skin will often permit the entry of bacteria and the development of skin rashes.

Singer Rosemary Clooney has been a recognized celebrity for many years -- but it took a scar to get special attention from her five children.

Miss Clooney, who'll make her TV dramatic debut in "The Losers" on NBC-TV's "The Dick Powell Show" Tuesday, Jan. 15, confessed to co-stars Lee Marvin and Keenan Wynn that her children were never impressed by the fact that mom was a star.

But in "The Losers" Rosemary plays a farmgirl who has never known love because she thinks the scar on her face makes her repulsive to men.

The scar, which was "built" onto her face, is made of glue, rubber and grease paint. One night during the filming of the comedy-drama she went home without removing her makeup, and when the kids spotted the scar they thought it was great.

"I've been singing songs for years," says Rosemary, "and my children couldn't have cared less -- but when they found out I was going to be

The family had finished dining at a restaurant and much of the steak remained on the plates. The father called the waitress over and asked her to put what remained on the plates into a bag to take home for the dog.

The Homemaker's Corner

By Mrs. Frances McKay
Home Demonstration Agent
Fulton County

W. C. Fields once said "If I say I've hurt my foot, I get sympathy, but if I say my feet hurt, everybody laughs".

In most American households, what happens after dinner? Father pulls off his shoes and settles down in his big easy chair, the children make a beeline for the TV set and sit as they rub their feet. What does Mom do? She wearily finishes up the dishes and joins the family but she doesn't have to pull off her shoes because she has been wearing house shoes or broken down loafers all day.

Your feet are a wonderfully intricate mechanism, created by nature to function properly and painlessly. They should be treated with care. It has been estimated that 80% of adults suffer from some form of foot disability during their lifetime.

If your feet and legs are uncomfortable, there are several things you can do to care for them.

1. Bathe the feet once a day. The first rule for good skin care is mild soap and water. Alternate contrast baths help speed up circulation. Signs of sluggish circulation are numbness, cold feet and cramps in feet and legs. To do contrast baths, get a rubber shampoo shower spray and sitting in the tub, spray the feet and legs with comfortably hot water and then switch suddenly to one minute of cold. Alternate five or six times and the toes will begin to tingle. The warm water causes the blood vessels to dilate, then the shock of the cold water causes a sudden contraction and forces the blood into different areas of the feet and

2. After washing, rub your feet and legs gently with baby oil, lanolin or glycerin if the skin is dry or chapped. If your feet perspire too freely, dust them with liberal amounts of foot powder.
  3. If you have an inflamed spot or small irritation on the toe, cushion it with lambs' wool until it feels better.
  4. Trim your toe nails about every two or three weeks. Trim them straight across and not shorter than the flesh.
  5. If you have corns or calluses, the big DON'T applies here. Don't cut them yourself. Bathroom surgery is a dangerous occupation. Don't use corn cures in any form. They can cause serious infection and damage to your skin.
  6. Arch supports, if you need them, should be fitted to each individual pair of feet from a plaster of Paris cast of feet only after x-ray studies and complete evaluation by the foot specialist.
  7. For adequate support all through the day, wear shoes with leather uppers and leather soles. Soft and pliable, the leather uppers give with each step. The sturdy leather soles give protection, as well as support.
  8. Take foot exercises. These help to speed the circulation in the legs and relieve numbness. A good simple exercise is to set in a straight backed chair with shoes off. Extend your legs and move your feet backward and forward as far as they will go. Do this for five minutes every night.
- To maintain good foot health, you must give your help.

THERE'S OMINOUS HAND-WRITING ON THE WALL for white collar workers in industry, according to The Wall Street Journal, whose staff reporter, Albert R. Karr cites specific examples of cut-backs by four large manufacturers totalling over 10,000 office workers, while no less than 200 others are studying white collar competence as they earlier studied production line efficiency.

Over the past 15 years, Mr. Karr reports, the production force has dropped 7 percent - while the office force has increased 65 percent. And with shrinking profits, a thinning of the latter ranks is inevitable.

But we note that salesmen were not among the casualties.

Jingoism

the story is completed that you take prompt action to carry out pertinent recommendations." Another basic point that has been ignored in these unhappy circumstances is the fact re-emphasized by City Attorney Jack Savage as he stated once again this week: "We do not close a street. We abandon it." This may be considered a legal technicality by some of those critics of the barricades, but it is a very important and basic fact. Judge Robert E. Jones referred to this last week when he threw out of court a petition attacking the blockade as a public nuisance. Actually, the city has taken an irrevocable action, and the thinking among legal experts is that there is no way now that this land abandoned by the City of Atlanta could be legally reclaimed, even if the Mayor or Board of Aldermen wanted to do so.

In light of these facts, we feel that it is ridiculous for anyone to keep harping upon "The Wall", or any sinister devious influences motivating its erection. All of the odious comparisons made with the Berlin Wall or Warsaw Ghettoes are more than an absurd indignity to an enlightened city, they are inexcusable and indefensible slurs uttered by overly emotional individuals who are either seeking personal profit out of the miseries of others, the enhancement of their own political power or prestige, or some special favors in return for their position.

Deplorable as have been many of the remarks made in the Negro community, and in the daily newspapers in Atlanta, on radio and TV, and now even in a sensational story in a national magazine, none of this distorted reporting should be allowed to influence the thinking or future actions of a city administration that has thus far dealt carefully and intelligently with a most unfortunate and explosive situation.

Pilot Club Meets

The West End Pilot Club of Atlanta will meet at 8:00 P.M., Monday January 14, at The Gordon Street Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Lucile White, President will preside.

Bill confided to his old friend that life was now an empty shell because "The woman I love has just refused my proposal of marriage."

"Well, don't let that get you down," his friend consoled him. "A woman's 'no' often means 'yes'."

"She didn't say 'no'," was Bill's dejected answer. "She said 'Phooey!'"

Holiday Nuptial Parties Honor Recent Bride

Mrs. Robert W. Hamner, recent bride, was honored at several nuptial affairs during the recent holiday season. The former Miss Nina Sue Estes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Estes, became the bride of Robert W. Hamner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hamner, on November 4.

Mrs. J.M. Cooper and Misses Shirley and Celia Cooper were hostesses at a bridal shower honoring the new bride at Lakeside Country Club. A color scheme of pink and white was used. Assisting the hostesses in entertaining were Miss Joanne Estes, sister of the bride, and Miss Audrey McGowan. About 45 guests signed the guest book kept by Mrs. Price Morton, a close friend of the family. The petite brunette bride wore a dusty brown Italian silk purchased last summer while traveling in Europe. She was seated between her mother and Mrs. Charles F. Hamner, mother of the groom.

Two other festive occasions of the recent holidays honoring the popular bride and groom were a miscellaneous tea given by Misses Lynne Mason, Cynthia Shedd and Mrs. Martha Hamilton. Also, Mrs. Jesse T. Collins entertained at a Mother and Daughter Tea at her lovely new home on Loch Lomond Trail. Many college friends and others of the young couple attended. The bride was radiant in blushing pink for one of the parties and wore an orange and green Irish Tweed costume suit for the other.

The young bride is continuing her education at the University of Georgia. Mr. Hamner is a graduate of Washington and Lee University, class of June 1962, where he was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is currently engaged in a training program with Colonial Stores.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamner are making their new home at 1130 Dolphin Drive, Cascade Cabana Apartments.

Forever Young

The Forever Young Club met at Cascade Methodist Church January 15 at 1:00 p.m. Miss Grace Hendricks is president. Following the business session, a social hour was enjoyed.

A man who has one reason for thinking he can perform a task is far superior to he who has a hundred reasons for thinking he can't.

Athletic "Greats" Honor Old Fulton High Coaches

More than 100 athletes that played baseball, football, and basketball under the coaching of L. W. Hope and C. C. Wills at old Fulton High School turned out recently to honor these two men.

Mr. Hope began his coaching career in 1923 and served continuously until 1945 when his baseball nine won the N.G.I.C. title. The players making up this power-house were: Dick McMillin, Roy Beardon and Charles Furgerson, pitching; Jack L. Stephens, first base, Richard Waits, second base; "Noot" Porter, shortstop; Herman Helton, third base; Charles "Dog" Adams, catcher; and the outfield consisted of Robert Gantt, Bobby Hargis and Ronald Helms.

Mr. Hope coached such men as Luke Appling, Jim Hearn, "Shorty" Roberts, Hubie Leftwich, Clarence Nelms, Virlyn B. Moore, Jr., Colie Daniels, Glenn Brooks, and many more.

Mr. Hope coached such men as Luke Appling, Jim Hearn, "Shorty" Roberts, Hubie Leftwich, Clarence Nelms, Virlyn B. Moore, Jr., Colie Daniels, Glenn Brooks, and many more. Luke Appling, attending a national baseball meeting in Rochester, N. Y., arrived by plane to attend the meeting. Speakers of the evening began with Clarence Nelms who talked about the baseball days in the early 1920's. Nelms was followed by "Slug" Kendrick who told of his experiences during the latter part of the 30's. Colie Daniels spoke concerning the early 40's, followed by Jack L. Stephens who told about the middle 40's. Tommy Vaughan rounded out the speakers with his discussion of the late 40's.

Each speaker had stories about Mr. Wills and Mr. Hope during their coaching careers. Luke Appling testified of his baseball days under Coach

Hope and gave his former Coach credit for his long and successful baseball career. Jack L. Stephens presented Mr. Hope a plaque and Mr. Wills was presented a plaque by Tommy Vaughan. Mr. Wills is now principal of the Southwest High School.

POSTAGE IS UP FOR EVERYBODY - well, most everybody. Private citizens, private business, publishers of legitimate newspapers and magazines, but not the publishers of the 28 publications of rural electric co-ops whose former half cent rate drops to an estimated 1/8 cent under the new postal law!

Meanwhile newspapers are paying the first of three consecutive ten percent increases, bank interest on loans and income tax - if they make any money; while these co-ops enjoy the REA 2 percent rate, pay no Federal income tax and are dedicated to the harassment of tax-paying investor-owned utilities.

CALUMET, MICH., NEWS: "Most householders, in these days of the High Cost of Living, have to strain to make ends meet, and many have found the only way to come out even at the end of the month is to operate on a budget. To set up their budget, they list all expenses and all income. Then they allocate some of the income for this expense, some for that expense. If there isn't enough income to take care of all expenses, they pare expenses here and there until it comes out right. Okay, so we didn't have to draw a picture . . . you knew this much all the time. "JANUARY 1963 -- ROUNDTABLE"

One of our Scouting resolutions for the New Year should be to "resolve to attend each monthly roundtable."

We can't give our Units the best program if we don't get the program ourselves. A good many Scouters, both volunteer and professional, give of their time and talent to provide our programs and to interpret these programs through the roundtable. Let's show our appreciation and loyalty by attending our roundtables each month.

"1910 to 1963"

THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY brings SCOUT BIRTHDAY week. What is your unit going to do about it?

Some Units have an annual affair of some kind, some have a Family Nite, some have Pot Luck Suppers. I know of at least one Cub Pack that has an annual Blue and Gold banquet.

Some Units put up window display, some have Father and Son camps.

What are you going to do? I know of one Unit that will have an Open House display of subjects related to the Merit Badges.

All of our Units should attend church as a unit. The uniform should be proudly worn during Scout Week.

So-----let's have all units do a little something extra for Scout Week 1963.

"PHYSICAL FITNESS"

President Kennedy has for some time now, been emphasizing Physical Fitness as one of our most important but sadly lacking subjects.

You Unit Leaders are well aware of this fact and so am I. It is a sad but true fact that the "Physical Fitness" Merit Badge is the stumbling block for a lot of our scouts. Two scouts that I know of are stopped cold on this Merit Badge, the only thing holding them up on the Eagle Rank.

One of these scouts is doing something about it he asked for and received for Christmas a set of bar bells and he is using them. Some units are incorporating in the weekly programs a portion of Physical Fitness. It wouldn't hurt all of our Units to do the same, it will show some results and maybe get our scouts into the habit. Shall we try it?

"CAMP BERT ADAMS 1963"

Now is the time for all good Scout Troops to start planning your Summer Camp at Bert Adams Scout Reservation.

A. Take last year's top 10 money winners. Eight are shorter than 6-feet; Palmer is 5-10 1/2, Littler 5-9, Nicklaus 5-11 1/2, Casper 5-11, Player 5-7, Sanders 5-10 1/2, Ragan, 5-11, Rodgers 5-7 1/2.

J. J. O. asks: Has a big league team ever hit two grand slam homers in one inning?

A. Only once in 62 years. Only time was last summer when Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison did it for Minnesota.

From H. S.: Ron VanderKelen completed 33 passes in the Rose Bowl. Is that a college record?
