

Detroit, Michigan
September 29, 1966

Hon. Ivan Allen
City Hall
Atlanta, Georgia

Dear Sir:

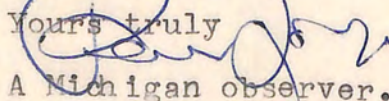

A local psychiatrist, upon viewing your impassioned condemnation of Lester Maddox, says you have lost contact with your surroundings, and show a degeneration of personality. He happened to be looking at your TV appearance.

He suggests fear, following long morbid brooding, based on some probable deviation for which you have a guilt dread caused you to exceed self control in your attitude.

He also analyzed one of the subordinate motives as a fear of reprisal by those who elevated you to public office, should you not continue in the direction you embraced in order to gain favor originally.

He suggests that your failure to recognize the mood of your community, and that with an all-out abandon you have adopted a defiance instead of compliance.

He says Atlanta will desert you and then politically destroy you and those who erected the structure you erected there

Yours truly

A Michigan observer.

Your abandoned and malignant attack on the voters, he says, marks the end of public confidence in you.